AVANTI NAGRATH ON LIVING THE LIFE OF HER DREAMS

From being a prominent face on global runways to turning muse for homegrown fashion designers, she has raised the bar too high, too early. But deep inside, Nagrath is drawn to simpler things in life.

The key is to create a protective bubble that keeps you focused on the bigger picture. Being in the spotlight all the time is a part of my job but it doesn't define me. Back home, you should have your bubble to retract into. For me, it's my routine that helps me remain aligned with my goals. Meditation, working out, and making an effort to spend time with loved ones help me cut the noise out.

Besides her striking features and 'all eyes on me' strut, she breathes life into the clothes she wears, irrespective of the varied styles and aesthetics. Whether it's the Y2K-inspired bold prints, sharp tailoring, futuristic accessories at Versace, Dior's pleated, sophisticated chic, elevated normcore at Courrèges, in contrast to Indian silhouettes in intricately crafted details—Nagrath effortlessly adapts to the different worlds of fashion. 'It's like travelling to different cities. Wherever you go, you vibe and adapt to the place without losing your essence. That's how I look at modelling as well. I just get with the flow and let it take its natural course.
